

Join us on September 25th for our roundtable discussion about current issues in education and alternatives to public school. This event is intended to bring together concerned parents and provide them with information and resources as it pertains to their child's education. We have several guest speakers from various organizations including: Moms for Liberty, Together We Stand and Rose Garden Academy. All presenters will have 15 minutes to discuss their organization and any pertinent issues and following the presentations we will have an open Q & A from the audience facilitated by LPF's own expert in child behavior, Merceydes Morassi, LMHC, BCBA.

Moms for Liberty Broward is dedicated to the survival of America by unifying, educating and empowering parents to defend their parental rights at all levels of government. They are nonpartisan and proud to use their organization to support parental engagement and families in Broward County, FL.

John Mears is the Founder & Executive Director of Together We Stand, An Aquaponic Garden & Practical Education center located in Hollywood, Florida. For 12 years John has been working with students, families, schools and other organizations illustrating and teaching practical applications of earth friendly technologies, such as aquaponics and hydroponics. Together We Stand is a program that combines Education, Music, Art, Food, Health & Wellness, Eco-tourism, & other Eco-businesses to create a balanced sustainable community enriching project.

Rachel and Michael are from the homeschooling pod, Rose Garden Academy (RGA). RGA focuses on developing critical skills that are relevant to all subject areas. These skills include social skills, critical thinking skills, communication skills, self-management skills, and research skills. Using these skills, they explore knowledge and concepts through open-ended questions and activities that promote blossoming interests to develop. A crucial part of learning is providing opportunities that encourage children to explore, wonder and play in a safe and engaging way.
